Dear Dad —

I wrote you a long letter last night but I forgot to mention something that I neglected to ask you on the phone yesterday. Before I left Seattle I mailed you my good wrist watch and I wonder if you've received it yet. I included the insurance slip in a letter that I mailed before I left. As I said in that letter my watch is on the blink and I'd like you to have it fixed for me.

Still no mail for any of us today and I wondering if you've received any of my various epistles — I hope so. As soon as you receive my first letter please be sure to send my new address to all the boys.

Must run now.

All love —

Bobby
